

Adding Images to Your Course (D2L)

News

Welcome!

Posted May 20, 2014 9:57 AM

Welcome Welcome! Can't wait to meet you and for all of us to get started on our exciting law and ethics extravaganza! I know that for many of you, you might be thinking, "I'm ~~soo~~ not looking forward to this course" but I promise that I will make every effort to make the class as painless as possible. (Not just painless but I give my word that you will have lots of learning and fun and that the days will just whip on by) (I promise!) So. See you soon. Be well in the meantime. Get all your readings done and you'll be ready to rock and roll.

Adding images is a great way to liven up your course and break up the monotony of text-based instructions. You can add images to Discussion questions, Module Instruction pages, or a News Item. The following instructions will show you how to add an image to a Discussion question. You can apply these instructions to just about anywhere else in the course that has an HTML editor.

1. Click on the Discussions tab in the mini navbar.
